Seminar

Sexual violence against women – what's the policy?

This seminar aims to increase awareness in the women's sector of sexual and other forms of gender-based violence and of current policy developments. Benefit from an awareness of violence against women as part of the struggle for women's equality. Learn how your organisation can become part of the wider debate on violence against women and increase women's equality.

NCVO, Kings Cross, London 5 October 2009 10am–1pm

Workshop

Sexual violence against women – what's the strategy?

This workshop will focus on how the women's sector is contributing to policy and shaping developments on sexual violence to protect women's rights.

- Learn about the process of influencing policy
- Share your thoughts on what more needs to be done
- Develop your own response or be part of our ongoing work

NCVO, Kings Cross, London 5 October 2009 2–4.30pm

Please note these events are open to women's organisations only

Women's Legal Policy Network

Rights of Women has established a Women's Legal Policy Network for London based women's organisations to provide information on policy consultations, legislation, relevant funding opportunities, and to create a forum for debate within the network as well as feeding into national policy debates. If you wish to join please complete the box overleaf.
